EMPLOYEE HEALTH FAIR DESIGNED TO SPARK WELLNESS AWARENESS
Med-Vision provides health fair coordination and customized wellness programs.

Sept 15, 2011 (Tampa, Fla.) – Med-Vision, LLC enjoyed another year of participation in Moffitt Cancer Center’s annual health fair for its more than 4,000 employees. Med-Vision, LLC was part of a team of wellness experts coordinating the baseball-themed event “World Series of Wellness” held Tuesday.

In addition to Med-Vision’s health planning strategists, Moffitt’s human resources, employee on-site clinic staff, and wellness coordinators worked with its insurance carrier and other exhibitors and sponsors. The full-day event featured sponsor booths, a fitness challenge registration, interactive displays, and free health screenings for blood pressure, cholesterol, osteoporosis, blood sugar, and BMI. Entertainment included an unexpected flash mob that broke out with dancing to liven up event visitors. Employees also had an opportunity to win prizes, including a bicycle sponsored by Med-Vision and Wells Fargo.

“For the past four years, we’ve been honored to work with Moffitt and provide data-driven health planning strategies to support the center’s commitment to employee wellness,” said Connie Gee, vice president of Med-Vision, who was recently featured in a WFLA-NBC news segment highlighting how Med-Vision helped Moffitt save over $11 million in healthcare costs.

Med-Vision’s health educator, Regina Novak, was also on the steering committee for the health fair. Novak hosted Med-Vision’s healthy pregnancy booth during the health fair. The booth served as a sneak peak to “Moffitt Mommy’s Day” programs that Med-Vision will be offering to Moffitt employees on a monthly basis beginning this month. The three-part program series will focus on a woman’s health before, during, and after pregnancy. The skills-building presentations are designed to educate and promote healthy pregnancies.
